

Xunlei Participates in a Key Blockchain Research Program

Media Report

Posted on January 21, 2021 Source: Xunlei Homepage

Xunlei and several leading Chinese universities and institutions were recently awarded a research project on Blockchain and Fintech technology, a major research program sponsored by the Department of Science and Technology of Guangdong Province.

The research project seeks to address a number of technological issues such as data security and user privacy protection in the application of blockchain technology.

You may view more details of the report via the following link:

<https://www.xunlei.com/newscenter/news/21381.html>